SOMETHING ABOUT THEIR PLANS.

The Great Undertaking to Be Under the Direction of the International Committee-Christian People of Richmond Asked to Help.

When it became evident that hostilities between the United States and Spain could scarcely be avoided, and that the men of this country would be called out for service under the "Star Spangled Banner." in the cause of freedom, one of the first questions that arose was that of providing proper facilities for the boys that had left their homes. At the very best, the life of the average young man is beset with temptations, and especially is it so with those who have gone forth

When Camp Lee was located at Richmond, the State Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association promptly erected a tent on the grounds not only helpful reading matter and imusements, but also furnished correspondence paper and supplies to the young men. In addition to this good work, the officers of the association had numerous opportunities for counselling and advising with young men at a time when they were peculiarly susceptible to such influence. During the three weeks that the camp was here, over one hundred men professed faith in Jesus Christ as their Saviour, and this work will go down into history as a most helpful one.

TO CARRY THE WORK ON. Now that hundreds of the sons of the Old Dominion have gone to other encampments, and are not only away from home, but from their own State, the question of their welfare becomes a most important of the Richmond Association, held on Tuesday night, General-Secretary McKee made a full statement concerning the work accomplished at the Virginia encampments, and also of that reported at the National General Secretaries' Conference, held at Winona Lake, Indiana, and so deeply were the directors impressed with the opportunities of this work that it was then and ther decided to appoint an army committee of three, and to inau gurate a movement looking towards as-sisting the International Committee in the greater work they have undertaken.

At each of the national encampments, this committee has its large tents, where the privileges, such as were provided by Virginia Association, are maintained for the soldier boys. Not only has this been done, but a number of the leading secretaries, with other association workers assisting, have gone forth to these camps, and are spending their entire time in doing all possible for the betterment of the soldier boys in both their temporal and spiritual life.

These association tents are gladly given to the chaplains for service, and in New York, during the State camp, not only did the different evangelical denomina-tions have the use of same, but the Catholic priests held service therein for the young men of that faith. Now, that the men have gone from the different States to the national encampments, it is of be continued, and it has been though best by the State and local organizations to turn it over entirely to the international office, and at the same time, do all in their power to help raise the amount needed for the work, also supply the workers.

It is estimated that $20,000 will be needed for the next six months. This, o some may seem a large amount, but when it is recalled that not only must large number of tents be maintained, re quiring a goodly number of men to give their full time and providing the different advantages, it will be readily seen that $3,000 a month is not a large sum In quite a number of tents alone it requires from $5 to $10 a day for corres-pondence paper furnished the men, to ay nothing of the other expenses Needy men are supplied with and every help possible extended Melvin Rock.

The medal and prizes were delivered by Rev. Drs. Cooper and Chrisman, and the closing exercises were much enjoyed by the little ones and their friends.

The Army Committee of the Richmond Association, composed of Mr. R. M. Smith, Mr. W. J. Whitehurst, and General Secretary McKee, are co-operating with the State Committee in assisting the International Committee to raise the required amount. The Board of Directors of the Richmond Association have appropriated $25 to start the fund, and the ommittee very earnestly request all who are interested in this great work and who are willing to contribute, to send in their amounts to Mr. W. J. Whitecare the association building. The The Army Committee will send communi ations to the different churches of Richmond, and it is hoped there will be very prompt response to this call. It is hoped that this time that the committee can send at least $300 toward the great need. The good people of this city will be very much interested in some of the news that has been received from the different camps, and which in and of itself conveys but a faint idea of what being accomplished.

These items go to show that a great work is being done, and it is hoped that the generous-minded citizens of our city will send to the Richmond Association Army Committee funds, so that the In-ternational Committee may have conclusive proof that Virginia is thoroughly interested in the great work that is being done for the young manhood of America. THE INFANCY OF RAILROADING. Queer Things Done On the First South Carolina Line.

(Charleston News and Courier.) Mr. L. A. Emerson, traffic manager of the South Carolina and Georgia railroad, has recently returned from Texas, and the people of the Lone Star State have since been talking about the splendid road which connects Charleston with the West, and laughing over the queer beginning from which it sprang. The Dallas Morn-ing News of June 5th published the following interesting article, dated from Fort Worth, in regard to Mr. Emerson and his "Mr. L. A. Emerson, traffic manager of the South Carolina and Georgia Railway, who recently spent several days in Fort Worth, gives some highly interesting information about his road, which is the oldest in the United States, and except-ing a few short lines built in England in the early 20's, the oldest in the world. The company was organized. May 12, 1828, and during 1829 six miles of the road was con-structed. At the start horse-power only was used, and a premium of $500 was awarded to the inventor of the endless chain process, which was calculated to move twelve passengers at the rate of twelve miles an hour. In 1829 and 1830 a sail was substituted for the horse. This experiment proved highly satisfactory, as it carried, when the wind was right, thirteen passengers and three tons of iron at the rate of ten miles an hour. This means of locomotion, however, came to means of icomotion, however, came to an abrupt end one day when the wind suddenly changed and took, sail, mast, sailors and all overboard while going at the great speed of only fifteen miles an hour. In March, 1830, a contract was awarded to the West Point Foundry, of New York, to construct an angine, guaranteed to make ten miles an hour and carry three times its weight. This was the first locomotive built in America. It was named Best Friend. It was a four-wheel concern, all four wheels being drivers. The wheels had iron hubs with wooden spokes and felloes. The boiler was vertical, like an old style porter bottle. The machine exceeded in power the wildest hopes of both the road and the builder, for it proved capable of carrying etween forty and fifty people sixteen to twenty-one miles an hour. On June 18, 31, however, a negro fireman held down the safety valve, and as a result the boiler exploded, landing the whole con-cern in the ditch. The accident was thought at first to be the result of fast running, as the train was at the time making close to eighteen miles an hour, and the following resolutions were adopted by the Board of Directors: "No greater speed shall be made by the engineer than fifteen miles per hour with one car of passengers, twelve miles with two cars, and ten miles with three cars.

"The next engine was named the West Point, and made two miles in eight minutes. The State Legislature stepped in at this point and declared that this rate of speed was excessive and dangerous to human life, and as a consequence the ompany put a 'barrier' car on each train This barrier car was a flat car, with cotton baies, which was expected to act a sort of brake and diminish the force of the fall when the passengers hit the ground. "These crude experiments, Mr. Emerso says, were among the early experiences of this now historical road. They began at the beginning with herse salls, and to-day, after a varied experience extending over nearly three-quarters of a century, possess one of the best equipped roads in America."
